

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF NEWFOUNDLAND AND LABRADOR FAMILY DIVISION

Citation: C.C. (Re), 2018 NLSC 71

Date: April 4, 2018

Docket: 201702F0427

IN THE MATTER OF an Application for a Declaratory Order of Parentage pursuant to section 7 of the Children's Law Act, R.S.N.L. 1990, Chapter C-13.

Before: Justice Robert A. Fowler

St. John's, Newfoundland and Labrador

January 18, 2018

Date of Hearing:

Place of Hearing:

Summary:

The Application was granted.

Appearances:

Tracy L. Bannier Jessica R. Pynn

Appearing on behalf of the Applicants Appearing on behalf of the Attorney General for Newfoundland and Labrador and the Registrar of Vital Statistics for Newfoundland and Labrador

Authorities Cited:

ONCA 2. Welfare), [1982] 2 S.C.R. 716, 39 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 246; A. (A.) v. B. (B.), 2007 CASES CONSIDERED: B. (D.) v. Newfoundland (Director of Child

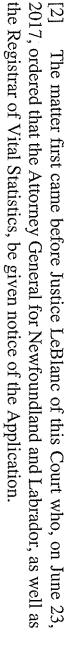

STATUTES CONSIDERED: Children's Law Act, R.S.N.L. 1990, Chapter C-13; Vital Statistics Act, 2009, S.N.L. 2009 Chapter V-6.01; Family Law Act, R.S.N.L. 1990, Chapter F-2.

REASONS FOR JUDGMENT

FOWLER, J.:

BACKGROUND

mother of a child, A., born of this polyamorous relationship, and who are now seeking a declaratory order pursuant to section 7 of the Children's Law Act, R.S.N.L. 1990, Chapter C-13 (the "CLA"). The Applicants are J.M. and J.E., the two male partners, along with C.C., the current legislation does not permit a child to have more than two parents time counsel for the Attorney General and Registrar of Vital Statistics stated that the postponement was granted and the matter set over to September 26, 2017 at which postponement of the matter to enable her to obtain further instructions. for the Registrar of Vital Statistics appeared on August 1, 2017 and requested a Having been served on June 28, 2017, counsel for the Attorney General and

- 2018, the matter was heard by Justice Fowler. 4 Justice LeBlanc then set the matter down for a hearing and, on January 18,
- and Registrar of Vital Statistics made oral submissions to the Court. Fact and Law. Memorandum of Fact and Law as well as her Book of Authorities. Counsel for the Attorney General and Registrar of Vital Statistics as well filed her Memorandum of At the hearing before Fowler, J., counsel for the Applicants filed her In addition, counsel for the Applicants and for the Attorney General
- 6 presentation of any further evidence were no further requests for additional postponement or for the
- [7]The hearing was concluded and reserved by the Court pending its decision.

INTRODUCTION

clear, the biological father of the child is unknown. the partners in this relationship is married and, while the identity of the mother is relationship has been a stable one and has been ongoing since June 2015. None of C.C., the mother of A., a child born of the three-way relationship in 2017. The J.M. and J.E. are the two male partners in a polyamorous relationship with declaration of parentage for all three of the Applicants pursuant to section 7 of the By way of Application to this Court, J.M., J.E. and C.C. are seeking a

ISSUE

Division, has the jurisdiction to make a declaratory order of parentage for more than two parents. Whether or not the Supreme Court of Newfoundland and Labrador, Family

RELEVANT LAW

- establishment of parentage and states: Part II, and in particular sections 6 and 7, of the CLA, refers to the
- that a woman is or is not in law the mother of a child. 6. (1) A person having an interest may apply to the court for a declaratory order
- 1988 c61 s6; 1989 c11 s3 the mother of a child, the court may make a declaratory order to that effect. (2) Where the court finds on the balance of probabilities that a woman is or is not
- that a man is or is not in law the father of a child. 7. (1) A person having an interest may apply to the court for a declaratory order
- father of a child, the court may make a declaratory order to that effect. (2) Where the court finds on the balance of probabilities that a man is or is not the
- in law unless it is established on the balance of probabilities that the presumed the court shall make a declaratory order confirming that the paternity is recognized father is not the father of the child (3) Where the court finds that a presumption of paternity under section 10 applies
- resumptions as to the paternity of a child and the court finds on the balance of probabilities that a man is the father of a child, the court may make a declaratory order to that effect. Where circumstances exist that give rise under section 10 to conflicting
- (5) [Rep. by 2009 c11 s1]
- (6) [Rep. by 2009 c11 s1]

birth of the child. (7) Nothing in this section prevents an application under this section before the Section 10 of the CLA addresses the presumption of paternity and states:

- presumed to be the father of a child in 1 or more of the following circumstances: \bigcirc Unless the contrary is proved on the balance of probabilities, a man is
- a he was married to the mother at the time of the child's birth;
- 3 he was married to the mother by a marriage that was terminated by
- (i) death or judgment of nullity that occurred, or
- 300 days, or a longer period the court may allow, before the birth of the child; divorce where the judgment of divorce or decree nisi was granted within
- father; he married the mother after the child's birth and acknowledges that he is the
- child; a he and the mother have acknowledged in writing that he is the father of the
- the court may allow, after the cohabitation stopped; and the time of the child's birth or the child was born within 300 days, or a longer period @ he was cohabiting with the mother in a relationship of some permanence at
- child. \mathfrak{S} he has been found or recognized by a court in Canada to be the father of the
- recognized in law to be the father unless the court so finds under subsection 7(2). may be the father, no presumption shall be made as to paternity and no one is (2) Where circumstances exist that give rise to a presumption that more than 1 man
- absence of evidence to the contrary, proof of the fact. proceeding against the interest of the person making the acknowledgment is, in the (3) A written acknowledgment of parentage that is admitted in evidence in a civil birth under the VSA, section 11 of the CLA states: In relation to a declaratory order of the Court and the effect on the registry of

- the court in the office of the registrar. finding of parentage or that is based on a recognition of parentage, shall be filed by 11. (1) A statement respecting each order or judgment of the court which makes a
- in the office of the registrar. (2) A written acknowledgement of paternity referred to in section 10 may be filed
- used for an unlawful or improper purpose, a person may inspect and obtain from the registrar a certified copy of (3) On application and on satisfying the registrar that the information is not to be
- (a) a statement or acknowledgment filed under this section; or
- 3 a certificate of registry of birth made under the Vital Statistics Act, 2009.
- statement or acknowledgment filed under this section. The registrar is not required to amend the register of births in relation to a
- in relation to a declaratory order made under section 6 or 7, the registrar shall, in accordance with the Vital Statistics Act, 2009 amend the register of births (5) Notwithstanding subsection (4), on receipt of a statement under subsection (1)
- recognition of parentage, section 12 of the CLA states: And further, in addressing the circumstances of artificial insemination and the
- semen of a woman's ovum outside of her uterus and subsequent implantation of the 12. (1) In this section, "artificial insemination" includes the fertilization by a man's fertilized ovum in her.
- man. the time she is inseminated even if his semen was mixed with the semen of another father of the resulting child if he was married to or cohabiting with the woman at (2) A man whose semen was used to artificially inseminate a woman is in law the
- the resulting child if he consents in advance to the insemination. solely with the semen of another man shall be considered in law to be the father of (3) A man who is married to a woman at the time she is artificially inseminated
- responsibilities of parenthood. the insemination, unless it is proved that he refused to consent to assume the considered in law to be the father of the resulting child if he consents in advance to A man who is not married to a woman with whom he is cohabiting at the time is artificially inseminated solely with the semen of another man shall be

- it is proved that he did not know that the child resulted from artificial insemination. child if he has demonstrated a settled intention to treat the child as his child unless subsection (3) or (4), he shall be considered in law to be the father of the resulting insemination or consent to assume the responsibilities of parenthood under Notwithstanding a married or cohabiting man's failure to consent to the
- in law the father of the resulting child. not married or with whom he is not cohabiting at the time of the insemination is not (6) A man whose semen is used to artificially inseminate a woman to whom he is
- defines a "child" and a "parent" at (a) and (d) respectively as: The Family Law Act, R.S.N.L. 1990, Chapter F-2 (the "FLA"), at section 2,
- (a) "child" means a child born within or outside marriage and includes
- a child adopted under the Adoption of Children Act, and
- child of his or her family, but does not include a child placed in a foster home (ii) a child whom a person has demonstrated a settled intention to treat as a for consideration by a person having lawful custody;
- home for consideration by a person having lawful custody; outside marriage, or by virtue of the Adoption of Children Act, and includes a her family other than under an arrangement where the child is placed in a foster person who has demonstrated a settled intention to treat a child as a child of his or "parent" means the father or mother of a child by birth, whether within or
- best interests of a child or children shall always be the determining factors for the It has been well-established that in dealing with the matters of children, the
- [18] Part III of the CLA states at section 31 that:
- access to a child shall be determined on the basis of the best interests of the child. 31. (1) The merits of an application under this Part in respect of custody of or
- all the needs and circumstances of the child including under this Part in respect of custody of or access to a child, a court shall consider (2) In determining the best interests of a child for the purposes of an application

- (a) the love, affection and emotional ties between the child and
- Ξ each person entitled to or claiming custody of or access to the child.
- (iii) other members of the child's family who live with the child, and
- persons involved in the care and upbringing of the child;
- reasonably be ascertained; 9 the views and preferences of the child, where the views and preferences can
- O the length of time the child has lived in a stable home environment;
- a special needs of the child; to provide the child with guidance and education, the necessaries of life and the the ability and willingness of each person applying for custody of the child
- (e) the ability of each parent seeking the custody or access to act as a parent;
- $\widehat{\mathbb{H}}$ plans proposed for the care and upbringing of the child;
- that the child will live; and 9 the permanence and stability of the family unit with which it is proposed
- Ξ and each person who is a party to the application. the relationship by blood or through an adoption order between the child circumstance of a polyamorous family relationship as is before this Court and that acting in the role of parents to a child. what is contemplated by the CLA is that there be one male and one female person [19] There is little doubt that the legislation in this Province has not addressed the relationship. seeking to be recognized in law as the father (parent) of the child born of that in this Province considered a polyamorous relationship where more than one man is and at no time is there a reference which would lead one to believe that the legislation [20] Throughout the above references, the sections speak to a "man" in the singular

ANALYSIS

- of her Memorandum of Fact and Law as being: and Registrar of Vital Statistics who stated her position on parentage at paragraph 9 In this regard, I agree with the position of counsel for the Attorney General
- 9. Act's use of the word "both": it is evident that the Act contemplates only two parents, particularly in the two people to be named as the legal parents of a child. Read comprehensively, The Children's Law Act, RSNL 1990 c C-13, does not allow for more than
- 26(3) Where more than 1 person is entitled to custody of a child, 1 of them behalf of both in respect of the child. may exercise the rights and accept the responsibilities of a parent on
- 28(2) A child is habitually resident in the place where he or she lived
- (a) with both parents:

Children's Law Act, RSNL 1990 c C-13 Memorandum of Act and Law of the AG of NL, Tab 1

[22] And further at paragraph 11:

--- as the codification of the best interests of the child. the distinction between children born inside and outside of marriage as well Hansard from that time shows that of primary concern was the elimination of The Children's Law Act was introduced to the House of Assembly in 1988. Polyamory was not

Newfoundland and Labrador, House of Assembly, Hansard, No. 71 Memorandum of Fact and Law of the AG of NL, Tab 3 (July 8, 1988) at 4217 (Hon. Lynn Verge)

[23] And at paragraphs 14, 15 and 16:

act that limits parentage to two people, the consistent use of the phrase "both While the Applicants have stated that there is no explicit provision in either parents. parents" in both acts indicates that the acts only contemplate a child having two

Construction of Statutes: of the "modern rule" of statutory interpretation as stated in Driedger, The 2016 NLCA 35, in which this province's Court of Appeal confirmed the adoption The Applicants have also noted the decision of Lynch v. St. John's (City).

43, 2015 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 124, at para. 15, the Supreme Court of Canada has adopted as its "modern rule" of statutory interpretation the statement in [31] As noted by the majority of this Court in Archean Resources Ltd. V. Newfoundland (Minister of Finance), 2002 NFCA 43 (CanLII), 2002 NFCA Driedger, The Construction of Statutes (2nd ed., 1983), at p. 87:

the Act and the intention of Parliament. ordinary sense harmoniously with the scheme of the Act, the object of Act are to be read in their entire context in their grammatical and Today there is only one principle or approach, namely, the words of an ordinary sense, it is evident that the acts contemplate a child having only two the Vital Statistics Act, 2009 in their entire context and in their grammatical and As discussed above, reading the words of both the Children's Law Act and patriae jurisdiction. legislation and, if so, does it trigger a remedy under the Court's inherent parens the Applicants in this matter, I will now consider whether or not there is a gap in the Having found that the provincial legislation does not offer much comfort to offered no appeal from the Director's decision to remove a child from the home of paragraph 14 that: prospective adoptive parents in which the child was prospering. was a gap in the Newfoundland Adoption of Children Act (at that time) in that it 39 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 246, Wilson, J. of the Supreme Court of Canada found that there [25] In B. (D.) v. Newfoundland (Director of Child Welfare), [1982] 2 S.C.R. 716, Wilson, J. stated at could have so ordered. It was not a matter of substituting his views for those of the removal of C. from their home, then I believe there is a gap in the legislative scheme which his interests might be protected, Noel J. had an obligation to intervene the appellants' home, then in the absence of any statutory right of appeal through deficiency in the statute. If it was not in C.'s best interests that he be removed from director. It was a matter of exercising his parens patriae jurisdiction in light of a that the director give C. the chance of the good home available with the B.'s. He patriae jurisdiction. Noel J., in other words, could have done more than recommend which the Newfoundland courts could have filled by an exercise of their parens If the B.'s had indeed no right of appeal under the statute from the director's Courts parens patriae power was to protect the best interests of the child in that case. It would seem from Wilson, J.'s comments that the crucial factor in using the paragraph 31 that: mother and one father (reference paragraph 22), and if that was the deliberate court, recognized and accepted that the scheme of the CLRA contemplates only one Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. C.12 (the "CLRA"). M.R. Rosenberg, J.A., writing for that have both women legally recognized as the mothers of a child, the Ontario Court of intention of the legislature then it would be difficult to overcome. Appeal found that there was indeed a gap in that province's Children's Law Reform [27] In A. (A.) v. B. (B.), 2007 ONCA 2, a case in which a lesbian couple sought to He stated at biological link to the child. declarations of parentage based on biology or genetics, it would be difficult to find 31. The determination of whether a legislative gap exists in this case requires a consideration of whether the CLRA was intended to be a complete code and, in that there is a legislative gap, at least as concerns persons with no genetic or biological or genetic relationships. If the CLRA was intended to be confined to particular, whether it was intended to confine declarations of parentage to children who no longer fit the traditional family model. He stated at paragraphs 33 but that the realities of a changing society must not be ignored to the detriment of a matter of accepting the social norms at the time of the introduction of the CLRA and 34 that: [28] However, in his further analysis, Rosenberg, J.A. found that it was not simply

Memorandum of Fact and Law of the Co-Applicants, Tab 1 Lynch v. St. John's (City), 2016 NLCA 35

- birth mother and the other partner was the biological mother, having been the donor M.D.R. M.D.R. involved a case where one lesbian partner was the gestational or basic questions of who is a biological mother. For example, consider the facts of is a gap. Advances in reproductive technology require re-examination of the most maternity to biological parents, that would not answer the question of whether there Further, even if the CLRA was intended to limit declarations of paternity and
- material ones." attitudes as well as recognizing that such declarations have significance beyond at: "The Legislature recognized by this legislation present social conditions and MacKinnon A.C.J.O. said in Bagaric v. Juric (1984), 44 O.R. (2d) 638 (Ont. C.A.) the vision of the Law Reform Commission and the Legislature of the day. As because those relationships and the advent of reproductive technology were beyond mother and one father. It did not legislate in relation to other types of relationships outside of marriage. The Legislature had in mind traditional unions between one time, equality of status meant recognizing the equality of children born inside and of the legislation was to declare that all children should have equal status. At the was not about the status of natural parents but the status of children. The purpose I return to the earlier discussion of the intention of the CLRA. The legislation
- to the matter presently before me. I agree with the reasoning of Rosenberg, J.A. and find it persuasive in relation relationships that are common and accepted in our society. Counsel for the Attorney approximately 30 years ago, there was no contemplation of the now complex family where the Honourable Minister Lynn Verge introduced a bill on family law reform. General and Registrar of Vital Statistics has referred me to Hansard of July 8, 1988 In relation to the CLA, it is safe to say that at the time of its introduction adjudication of access and custody matters. Our Province has long suffered without actions involving them. An innovation is setting out proper procedures for a court ways by codifying the concept that the interests of children are paramount in court case. The Act further provides for enhancement of the status of children in other Charter of Rights, and it is something that our government would want to do in any marriage and within marriage. The Act, for a start, eliminates the distinction between children born and outside of substantial reforms in our Family Law, reforms, I should say, that are long overdue. The fourth bill is 'An Act Respecting The Law of Children,' and that contains very Of course, that would be required now by The have had to resort to other inappropriate remedies which were never conceived for appropriate legislative provision for resolving custody and access disputes, and we So I am pleased that members opposite agree with the principles of the There are a number of other innovations in the area of the law respecting

- 35 that: for children born inside and outside of marriage. This was the same as found by Rosenberg, J.A. in his analysis at paragraph 34 above. He further stated at paragraph It is clear from Hansard that the main concern was to bring about equal status
- reproductive technology have created gaps in the CLRA's legislative scheme. Because of these changes the parents of a child can be two women or two men. appreciation of the value of other types of relationships and in the science of parentage provide. of these relationships are deprived of the equality of status that declarations of CLRA, however, does not recognize these forms of parenting and thus the children They are as much the child's parents as adopting parents or "natural" parents. The Present social conditions and attitudes have changed. Advances in our [Emphasis Added]

[32] And further at paragraph 38:

of declarations of parentage for two women, but that is a product of the social mothers from the advantages of equality of status accorded to other children under revealed. In the result, the statute does not provide for the best interests of D.D. to that possibility, so that over thirty years later the gap in the legislation has been conditions and medical knowledge at the time. The Legislature did not turn its mind deliberate. There is no doubt that the Legislature did not foresee for the possibility Legislature made a deliberate policy choice to exclude the children of lesbian 103. There is nothing in the legislative history of the CLRA to suggest that the I am not prepared to do so. See the comments of Rivard J. in M.D.R. at paras. 93 -Legislature a discriminatory intent in a statute designed to treat all children equally. Moreover, a finding that the legislative gap is deliberate requires assigning to the I disagree with the application judge that the legislative gap in this case is

- bring about equal status for all children notwithstanding their parentage never the intention of the legislature to discriminate against any child but clearly to I am of the opinion that when the CLA was enacted in this Province it was
- relationship from the best interests of the child's point of view. paternal identity of both men as the fathers of A. I can find nothing to disparage that certainty of parentage is unknown seems to be the adhesive force which blends the model, provides a safe and nurturing environment. stable and loving family relationship which, although outside the traditional family In the present case, the child, A., has been born into what is believed to be a The fact that the biological
- no reason to believe that this relationship detracts from the best interests of the child. 31(2) of the CLA come into play with the exception of the views of the child. I have and not as a detriment to the best interests of the child. family structures are changing along with it. This must be recognized as a reality privileges associated with that designation. Society is continuously changing and would deprive the child of having a legal paternal heritage with all the rights and On the contrary, to deny the recognition of fatherhood (parentage) by the Applicants As to the best interests of the child in this case, all of the factors under section
- [36] Under the CLA, at paragraph 10(2) where a presumption that more than one man may be the father of a child, I am required to consider paragraph 7(2) in that
- of probabilities in his individual favour and either of them is likely to be the child's share an equal probability of paternity in this case, neither of them tilts the balance I have considered paragraph 7(2) and find that since both J.M. and J.E. each
- a polyamorous relationship as is before the Court. was not intentional but which acts against the best interests of a child born into such I find on the evidence before me that there is in fact a gap in the CLA which To deny this child the dual this is about the best interests of the child and not the best interests of the parents. paternal parentage would not be in his best interests. It must be remembered that

- states with reference to Wilson, J.'s analysis in the case of B. (D.) v. Newfoundland (Director of Child Welfare) and referenced previously in this decision: Fact and Law, acknowledges the parens patriae jurisdiction of this Court when she General and Registrar of Vital Statistics, at paragraph 17 of her Memorandum of Court I have an inherent parens patriae jurisdiction. As to my parens patriae jurisdiction, it is well established that as a Superior Counsel for the Attorney
- The Supreme Court of Canada has found that a court may use its parens limitation on the Court's use of its parens patriae jurisdiction remedy the gap Statistics Act, 2009 on the inherent jurisdiction of the Court. Therefore, if this legislation. There is no limitation in either the Children's Law Act or the Vital patriae jurisdiction (a facet of its inherent jurisdiction) to fill a gap in Honourable Court finds a gap in the legislation at issue, there is no statutory

B.(D.) v. Newfoundland (Director of Child Welfare), [1982] 2 S.C.R. 716 Memorandum of Fact and Law of the AG of NL, Tab 5

- are the fathers (parents) of the child, A., born of the polyamorous relationship with follow accordingly. fathers of A. To remedy the gap I am issuing a declaration that both J.M. and J.E. parens patriae jurisdiction, I find that there is an unintentional gap in the Children's [40] In consideration of the best interests of the child and in the exercise of my C.C., the mother of the child. The amendments to the Vital Statistics Act, 2009, shall Law Act, R.S.N.L. 1990, C-13, preventing a recognition of J.M. and J.E. as the
- [41] There will be no order as to costs.

ROBERT A. FOWLER

Justice